Neymar Must Make his Opponents' Lives Hell, Says Scolari

Neymar's dribbles can annoy the opponents and injure the striker, but that does not bother the coach Luiz Felipe Scolari.

During the friendly match against Panamá on Tuesday (3), in Goiânia, he passed the ball underneath the legs, over the head, showed a bicycle trick and scored one of the four goals. He was shown a yellow card after arguing a foul.

"The only way Neymar won't dribble is if he is left behind at Granja Comary or if he plays as a central defender. He must dribble; make his opponents' lives hell. It is up to the referee to restrain the violence. Neymar shouldn't change his way of playing to avoid injury", said Scolari.

When Neymar reported for duty, he was still recovering from a left foot injury, suffered on April 16, during a Barcelona match. According to the player, he is not 100% yet, but he should play sometime during the 90-minute warm-up match this Friday (5), against Serbia, in São Paulo.

Scolari also said he recommends Neymar and the other athletes to avoid been shown yellow cards due to complaints, like the one the player received against Panama. As per World Cup rules, accumulating two yellow cards causes the suspension in the next game.

"They must respect the referee and the linesmen. That's my recommendation", said Scolari.
